

Key Accomplishments and Future Plans

Campus Safety Professional Development

The National Center for Campus Public Safety (NCCPS) Trauma-Informed Sexual Assault Investigation and Adjudication Institute provides college and university administrators involved in investigating and adjudicating sexual misconduct cases information and resources necessary to conduct trauma-informed investigations in line with evolving practices. After rigorous pilot programming, evaluation, and update, the NCCPS conducted public, regional course offerings of this critical educational opportunity beginning in 2016. We continue to strategically schedule additional Institutes around the country.

In addition, the NCCPS is currently developing online educational courses on campus public safety topics such as physical security and verbal de-escalation.

An Institute participant offered the following feedback:

'Excellent training: far and away the best, most thorough and holistic one I have attended'

 94% overall satisfaction for the institute

99% of evaluation survey respondents indicated they were "satisfied" or "very satisfied" with the emerging issues forums.

Emerging Issues Forums

The NCCPS has co-hosted numerous emerging issues forums to discuss campus public safety and emergency management challenges and identify potential solutions. Forum topics included reclaiming the spirit of the Clery Act, policing off-campus communities, institutionalizing the Clery Act, global safety and security, police and community interactions on campuses, implementing Clery and Title IX, impact of marijuana legalization and decriminalization, managing student mental health, and weapons carry on campus.

We will continue to facilitate emerging issues forums on important and timely campus public safety topics. Reports summarizing the findings from the forums are available to view and download from our website (www.nccpsafety.org).

Leaders of the organizations that partnered with the NCCPS to conduct emerging issues forums expressed their appreciation for our role in bringing together key stakeholders to identify ways to enhance implementation of the Clery Act.

Curtis Johnson, President of the HBCU-LEEA, offered the following feedback:

In a very short timeframe, NCCPS has given HBCU-LEEA a seat at the table and provided a platform for inclusion. The resources shared have been a valuable tool for the continued success and growth of our team. We look forward to a long future of collaboration with NCCPS. Our voice matters!

Webinars

The NCCPS's free webinar series, Campus Public Safety Online, features national experts and addresses topics of interest to the higher education community including:

 90% overall satisfaction

- behavioral threat assessment on campus
- best practices for managing large events
- off-campus community relations
- adding international incidents to campus emergency response plans
- emergency management program needs assessment findings
- business continuity
- social media's role in campus safety
- crime prevention through environmental design

Webinar registration, closed-captioned archived recordings, presentation slides, and links to relevant resources are available through our website (www.nccpsafety.org).

Resources

The NCCPS disseminates toolkits, guidebooks, model policies, sample templates, and other essential resources to public safety professionals on a wide variety of public safety and emergency management topics. These resources are provided on our website (www.nccpsafety.org), in the NCCPS' electronic bulletin, the Weekly Snapshot, and through responses to direct requests for information and resources.

The Weekly Snapshot features timely and carefully curated content for campus communities, public safety and emergency management professionals, and law enforcement officers. We include reports and studies issued from government agencies, non-profit organizations, and professional associations on a variety of topics. In addition, the Weekly Snapshot provides information and details on national observances, legislative updates, federal awareness bulletins, and upcoming events. Visit our website (www.nccpsafety.org) to sign up for our mailing list.

Civilian Response to Active Shooter Events (CRASE) Training

We partnered with ALERRT to bring Civilian Response to Active Shooter Events (CRASE) Train-the-Trainer courses to college and university campuses across the nation. This critical training, designed and developed on the Avoid | Deny | Defend™ strategy, provides "strategies, guidance and a proven plan for surviving an active shooter event." Learn more at www.alerrt.org.

Needs Assessments

In partnership with the Disaster Resilient Universities® Network and the International Association of Emergency Managers-Universities and Colleges Caucus, we sponsored a nationwide study to identify emergency management program needs at higher education institutions. A research team from the University of Oregon Community Service Center (CSC) conducted research, analyzed results, provided key findings, and developed a set of draft recommendations, which were vetted and refined by an advisory committee. The report is available on our website (www.nccpsafety.org).

In 2017, the NCCPS also partnered with the CSC to learn more about current and desired levels of engagement between 1) campus safety agencies and fusion centers, and 2) campus safety agencies and campus liaison agents, part of the FBI's Campus Liaison Program. Our goal is to share the results of this survey with DHS and FBI as the information provided may inform future outreach activities by the NCCPS and our federal partners.

How Can We Assist?

The NCCPS was established to help meet the needs of the campus public safety community. We are a centralized location providing comprehensive information and resources to help you provide a safe environment for your campus community. There is no need to struggle to find information on best practices for a particular safety issue, or spend hours searching the internet for a counterpart at another institution. We're here to help make this process as easy and seamless as possible. Our team is available to answer your questions by email (info@nccpsafety.org) or phone (1.866.817.5817). Please don't hesitate to contact us and tell us how we can help.
